unit of a recognised teaching hospital before appearing for the examination. The candidates have to submit a list of major operations performed personally by them and certified by the chief of the unit. They have got to submit commentories on surgical cases of importance which have to be approved by the four Examiners for the M.S. before the candidates could appear for the examination. As per rules governing the appointment of Honorary men, a doc who has worked for three years in the surgical units of a moffusil hospital as a junior A.M.O. is eligible to be appointed as a senior A.M.O. It is reasonable to expect that an M.S. who has got to put in not less than three in the surgical unit of a first grade teaching hospital, will be appointed as senior A.M.O. without first be junior A.M.O. You will agree with me, Sir, that th of cases and the type of surgery done in the General is far superior to what is done in the moffusil hosp the experience of a man working in the surgical unit general hospital cannot be compared with a doctor w for a similar period in a moffusil Hospital. At I hope, Sir, you will concede that I have atleast a experience as a junior A.M.O. who has completed thr in a moffusil hospital and so, is eligible for a sen ent's post. In this connection, I would like to r that I passed my M.B.B.S. in 1941 and I post graduate experience to my cred in the surgical units of the Govern ras, which is the Primier Hospital also like to submit that an M.S. cruited directly as a Senior Surg

S i r,

I have the honour to draw your attention to the fact that I have been posted only as an Honorary Assistant Surgeon (junior) to the Wenlock Hospital, Mangalore.

In this connection, I would like to point out, that I took my M.B.B.S. in 1941 and I took up the study of Anatomy as a demonstrator for about 13 months with a view to base my surgery on a sound footing. I then joined the surgical units of the General Hospital, Madras, as Post-graduate under Rao Bahadur Dr.N.M. Rao, M.B.C.M., F.R.C.S., D.L.O., Professor of Surgery, Madras Medical College and worked under him till the end of November 1945 when he retired. Then I worked under Dr. U. Mohan Rao, M.D., M.S., F.R.C.S., Hony. Surgeon, Government General Hospital, till I passed my M. S. in 1946. After this, I worked under Dr. Narasimha Iyer, F.R.C.S., specialising in thopaedics.

After taking my M. S. I applied for an appointment as an Honorary Surgeon in the Wenlock Hospital, Mangalore. This application was recommended and forwarded by the then D.M.O. on the strength of my qualification and post-graduate experience.

You may be aware of the fact that the M.S.Qualification is the highest qualification in Surgery given by the Madras University. The rules require that one should work not less than three years as a post graduate in a surgical have been appointed as senior A.M. Officers in the first grade teaching Hospitals at Madras. I request, Sir, that I may be considered good enough to start as a senior A.M.O. in a second grade non-teaching moffusil Hospital at Mangalore.

I understand that as per rules an M.S. to be appdnted as a senior A.M.O. directly should satisfy the Government regarding his experience in Surgery. I am herewith enclosing a Certificate from a well-known Surgeon who knows my work and ability intimately and who was Professor of Surgery, Madras Medical College till recently. He considers me one of the best Surgeons trained by him and has no doubt regarding my ability to hold independent charge of beds, let alone the post of Senior Assistant. Let me point out, Sir, that Dr. U.Mohan Rao, M.S.,F.R.C.S., the present Surgeon of outstanding ability in the General Hospital was his pupil and was trained byhim. If need be, I will submit Certificates from other Surgeons under whom I have worked regarding my experience and professional ability.

I, therefore, request you to forward this letter of mine to the Hon'ble the Health Minister, to reconsider his order and appoint me as an Honorary Assistant Surgeon (Senior) to the Wenlock Hospital, Mangalore.

Thanking you,

Yours obediently,

M. Venugopal Shetty

Rao Bahadur Capt. N.M.Rao,
M.B.C.M., F.R.C.S.,D.L.O.,

Professor of Surgery &
Surgeon, General Hospital, Madras.
(Retd.)

Mangalore,

6- 11- 1948.

I have known Dr. M. Venugopal, M.S. (Madras) for some years. After an uninterrupted College career he joined the Anatomy Department with a view to base his Surgery on sound basis. After acquiring a thorough knowledge of Anatomy he joined me in the General Hospital, where I was Professor of Surgery there, till my retirement towards the end of 1945.

During the period he was with me, I have found him one of the best read youngsters in surgical literature, backed by intense practical work.

Apart from assisting me in many major surgical procedures, he has himself performed a large number of major abdominal operations successfully. This includes many acute surgical emergencies.

He has developed a very good surgical operative technique and diagnostic acumen. When he was with me his opinion on any case was highly respected by me. He is a very promising young Surgeon with a bright future. His knowledge of Anatomy makes him approach any part of the human body with absolute confidence. I would have no hesitation in putting any surgical case under his care. I consider him one of the best young Surgeons trained under me. I would very strongly recommend him for an Honorary Surgeon's post with independent charge of beds. He certainly has enough experience and more to hold that post. As Mangalore is in very bad need of a good Surgeon, the poor hospital class people will be intensely benefitted by his appointment as a Honorary Surgeon here.

He was the first and only one to pass the M.S.Examination under the new regulation in 1946. This success on his very first attempt, in the stiffest and highest qualification in Surgery in India is indeed very creditable.

He has opened at Mangalore, what is easily the best Nursing Home in the West Coast, with all modern equipment. He has already proved to be a very popular Surgeon of this place. I consider him an acquisition to this town.
